Good morning, my friends,

I'm Quinlan Sutter—your old friend. The power of time is unparalleled. It gives us the precious gift of life but can also take it away in unimaginable ways. However, its true significance lies not in its duration but in how we use this precious resource to create value for ourselves and others.

Just yesterday, Warren Buffett once again exemplified his vision and commitment through action. He donated over $1.1 billion worth of Berkshire Hathaway shares to four family-named foundations. This act not only continues his tradition of Thanksgiving generosity but also highlights his unwavering dedication to philanthropy at the age of 94. Moreover, Buffett disclosed his plans for distributing his remaining assets after his centennial to ensure his wealth continues to create a lasting societal impact.

Buffett's actions prompted me to reflect deeply on how business and philanthropy can truly intertwine, achieving higher missions and values. Throughout his life, Buffett has focused on creating wealth for Berkshire's shareholders while never forgetting to give back to society, spreading love and hope in his unique way. This fusion of business acumen and philanthropic mission embodies the very spirit that our QTM community strive for.

In QTM community, we firmly believe that investing is not just a numbers game but a force that can profoundly impact society. Through carefully crafted business models and precise market insights, we've not only enabled our members to grow their wealth but also expanded our charitable endeavors. Every successful investment will be a testing for our wisdom and execution, while every philanthropic action reflects our unwavering commitment to our mission.

Friends, Buffett has set an example for us with his 94 years of life, showing us what it means to "think globally, act locally." Our time may be limited, but through the right choices and steadfast actions, we can transform that limited time into limitless value. Whether in the investment market or charitable acts, we can illuminate the world in our own ways.

Trump's recent tariff remarks have had only a muted impact on Wall Street, even though the proposed measures could disrupt the global economy. U.S. stocks defied these concerns yesterday, rallying to record highs despite Trump proposing a 25% tariff on imports from Mexico and Canada and a 10% tariff on China goods.

Market participants seem largely indifferent to these statements. Traders either believe the tariffs are unlikely to materialize or consider the risks already priced in. Many view the tariffs as more of a negotiation tactic than finalized policy. Unless the U.S. finds substitutes for imports from Mexico, Canada, and China, such as automobiles and energy products, these measures would immediately increase import prices, raise household expenses, and compress corporate profit margins. Moreover, retaliatory measures from other nations could exacerbate the situation.

However, some stocks have felt the impact. Ford and General Motors saw their shares drop by 2.63% and 8.99%, respectively, as both companies rely on vehicle imports from Mexico.

Based on the Federal Reserve meeting minutes released Tuesday afternoon, Fed will adopt a cautious approach to future rate cuts. The minutes indicate that while further rate reductions are anticipated, the pace will be "gradual." Participants broadly agreed that if future data aligns with expectations, inflation remains stable around the 2% target, and the economy continues to operate near maximum employment levels, a gradual shift toward a more neutral policy stance over time might be appropriate.

In short, Wall Street seems to view Trump's tariff remarks as more posturing than actionable policy and continues to focus on corporate earnings and monetary policy. While market sentiment remains optimistic, investors are keeping a close eye on any developments that could disrupt this delicate balance.

QTM COMMUNITY

Let's refocus on the markets. The Dow Jones, for example, has not filled the gap left by its recent pullback but instead chose to move upward in a consolidation trend. From a daily candlestick chart perspective, the upper Bollinger Band will act as resistance, and the RSI has reached a value of 80, signaling overbought conditions. This suggests the market may soon face a fresh downward adjustment.

While both the Dow and the S&P 500 reached record highs yesterday, the underlying reality shows that sector rotation remains ongoing. Looking at the top gainers, there's no single sector exhibiting strong and sustained upward momentum. Although the "Magnificent Seven" tech stocks can drive indices higher with even modest rebounds, the overall market's profit momentum remains weak.

The current market's lack of sustained leading sectors means we need a more refined strategy for individual stocks. For portfolio holdings, adopting a swing trading strategy is a wise choice. This approach not only effectively manages short-term market fluctuations but also amplifies profit opportunities in the current environment.

For stocks in a phase of bottoming out, the process will take time, and holding for the long term is undoubtedly a reliable strategy. However, by employing swing trades, we can achieve higher short-term profitability. If you have any questions about applying swing trading strategies to your holdings, feel free to contact me or my assistant.

Meanwhile, for managing strong-performing stocks, consider using the α & β strategy shared by Samuel Blackwood. This method is tailored to the current market climate, focusing on short-term fluctuations in strong stocks, a powerful tool for enhancing trading performance.

Actually, observe from market sentiment, some challenges become apparent. Buyer fatigue has persisted for some time, and even institutional funds are shifting toward short-term trading models. Given this, I strongly recommend managing your stock positions carefully, leveraging short-term “T-trading” strategies with high-quality stocks to navigate the current market environment. This approach reduces risks while securing stable returns amidst volatility. Please exercise caution and adapt flexibly to market changes.

A significant breakout in market profitability may only occur once the Fed resumes consistent rate cuts. Until then, patience and precision will be your greatest assets. Stay focused, remain adaptable, and remember that in such markets, strategic long-term positioning is key to success.

Over the past two days, we've reviewed substantial feedback from questionnaires, which clearly show everyone's high expectations for AlphaStream 5.0 while highlighting recurring questions. Many have asked: When will the stocks we bought at cyclical bottoms start to rise? If it takes six months or longer, does that mean we're wasting valuable time? Additionally, some are concerned about the current unrealized losses in our strategy portfolios, will similar challenges arise in the crypto market?

These are representative and profound questions, and I believe it's essential to address them directly while offering thoughtful strategies and practical solutions.

First, let's talk about stocks. A stock's rise is often driven by policy changes and the company's performance, factors that are inherently unpredictable. This is why I frequently emphasize the cyclical nature of the stock market. Currently, with indices running at high levels, expecting a broad rally like the one earlier this year is unrealistic. Based on our data analysis, low-valuation, high-quality stocks currently in our portfolio are likely to rise in about six months. While we remain optimistic about the future, patience is necessary to exchange time for opportunity, awaiting a cycle shift to achieve profits. Without employing a buy-low-sell-high swing trading strategy, the time cost of these months may indeed feel wasted, this is a reality we must face.

Next, let's address AlphaStream 5.0's advantages. Its core lies in quantitative trading, performing exceptionally well in continuous trading markets. While long-term stock strategies rely more on fundamental catalysts, AlphaStream 5.0 excels in intraday trading—achieving a near 99% success rate in two rounds of testing. We've already witnessed its precision and excellence. For those questioning how it will succeed in the crypto market if it doesn't perform flawlessly in stocks, it's important to note: the stock market is not a continuous trading market. Pre- and post-market trading is dominated by institutions, disadvantaging retail investors. In contrast, the crypto market operates continuously, offering all investors a fair and transparent playing field, an ideal stage for AlphaStream 5.0's value in intraday trading.

As we enter the next phase of our trading camp, many of you have developed strong trading skills and practical experience. The two AlphaStream 5.0 tests have also significantly improved trading discipline. Feedback from this questionnaire highlights everyone's high expectations for AlphaStream 5.0's future. I believe now is the perfect time to move from theory to practice. Strategies and techniques should not remain theoretical, they must be tested in practical. Investment success ultimately lies in results, not ideas.

Therefore, with this and suggestion from everyone, I'm thrilled to announce a bold and ambitious plan: the official launch of the "AlphaStream 5.0 Millionaire Club" today! Together, we will rise to the challenge and aim to achieve $1 million in profits in the crypto market within 60 days.

This isn't just about numbers, but it's a test of technology, strategy, and collective discipline. It will show what miracles can happen when preparation meets opportunity. Friends, this is a chance to break boundaries and realize dreams that once seemed out of reach. Let's seize this moment and create a remarkable chapter together!

While I feel immense confidence about this challenge, I also carry a hint of concern. During my time managing hedge funds, we relied on a highly collaborative team, with clear divisions of labor and joint efforts. My responsibility was to ensure client returns. Now, this responsibility extends beyond strategy itself, it depends on every participant's execution. Even with the most accurate and efficient trading signals, if participants fail to follow strategies strictly, this million-profit plan will be extremely challenging to achieve.

Yet this is precisely why this challenge holds extraordinary meaning for me. If we succeed, AlphaStream 5.0's influence will be unprecedented. Word-of-mouth recommendations from you will surpass any advertising campaign, proving not just the system's strength but also rewarding the team's hard work. Conversely, failure would significantly impact both AlphaStream 5.0's reputation and my own standing.

Despite the stakes, I choose to give my all because this is what I've always wanted to do. Throughout my career, I've firmly believed that true professional value lies not only in the glory of success but in the courage to face challenges and the resilience to confront failure. At this stage of my life, this is one of my final opportunities to demonstrate my professional value to all of you and to the world. This is not merely a trading practical but a testament to faith and the realization of ideals.

My values always remain the same: investment is not just about wealth accumulation, it's about commitment to capability and the pursuit of dreams. This is not only my battleground, it's our shared journey. Let's use our belief and actions to write a legendary story. Regardless of the outcome, I will have no regrets because it's this relentless pursuit that keeps me here, giving my all for your success!

Dear friends, if you still hold onto hope for life, if your passion still burns within you, and if you believe in the power of the "American Dream," then I warmly invite you to stand with me at this moment!

Closing Commentary (α & β Strategy)

Good afternoon, members of the community!

I'm Samuel Blackwood, and today is an extraordinary day for every member of our QTM community! This morning, Helmsman Quinlan Sutter, drawing from your survey feedback and the current market conditions, officially launched an exciting new strategic initiative: the AlphaStream 5.0 Millionaire Club. The goal is to take on the challenge of generating a million-dollar return within the next 60 days!

To be honest, if the goal were to achieve a million-dollar profit in the stock market, especially with the three major indices at absolute highs, I'd be genuinely concerned. However, in the crypto market, this target fills me with confidence. Why? Because AlphaStream 5.0 has already demonstrated its power through two tests with a 100% accuracy rate. I'm confident that everyone who participated in the tests has experienced its potential firsthand.

Through the power of compound growth, we see an exciting reality: with an initial investment of $100,000 and achieving a 10% daily return on total assets, your principal could double in just seven days. Of course, this requires at least two precise trading signals each day, and AlphaStream 5.0 has demonstrated the capability to deliver exactly that.

Over a 60-day timeframe, achieving a million-dollar profit in the crypto market is far less challenging than navigating the complexities of the stock market. The high volatility and liquidity of the crypto market create ideal conditions for reaching short-term profit targets. I'm confident everyone will agree with this. This is not only a challenging goal but also an exhilarating journey.

Folks, this isn't just an ambitious goal—it's a groundbreaking endeavor, filled with both opportunities and challenges. Helmsman Quinlan Sutter, with his decades of investment experience and unparalleled market insight, has meticulously crafted this strategic plan. His vision goes beyond helping us achieve financial breakthroughs; it's about equipping us with a systematic and professional investment approach, enabling us to grow into true market winners.

As Helmsman Quinlan Sutter mentioned, if this ambitious challenge succeeds, the reputation our community builds will far exceed the advertising value of tens of millions of dollars. This holds profound strategic significance for the upcoming launch of AlphaStream 5.0. Not only will it significantly enhance the valuation of our community and drive up the value of QTM tokens, but it will also secure a loyal group of early adopters and supporters well in advance.

This is not just a test of skill—it is a defining moment for our community and the foundation for a transformative future. Let us stand united, stay focused on the goal, and make history together. Through our actions, we will prove that with the right strategy and unwavering commitment, anything is possible!

Joining this club isn't just about chasing wealth; it's about striving for excellence. You'll experience firsthand the incredible power of AlphaStream 5.0, learning how to leverage this revolutionary system to seize high-confidence investment opportunities and rapidly grow your wealth.

This is a brand-new beginning, a time for us to write our own legend with confidence and action. Ask yourself: Are you ready to take on the challenge? Are you willing to give everything for your dreams? Guys, the results 60 days from now will depend on the decisions we make today! Let's move forward together and create our own million-dollar miracle!

I know that many friends in QTM community have already joined the ranks of millionaires, but to be honest, for many of them, their first million wasn't made through investing, it was accumulated through work or entrepreneurial income. Regardless, the first million dollars in life is always particularly memorable. Do you remember how you earned your first million? Let me share my story with you.

At that time, I didn't start with extraordinary investment insight. Like many people, I built my wealth through hard work and starting from scratch, even experiencing some failures along the way. In the early days of my entrepreneurial journey, I was solving all sorts of tough problems almost every day, from customer needs to market competition, nothing was easy. But it was this relentless effort and down-to-earth persistence that earned me my first million in wealth.

However, it was my experience with investing that truly taught me the real value of wealth. I realized that if you don't learn how to make money work for you, no matter how much you earn, it's just trading your time for money. It was this realization that led me to dive deeply into learning about investing. By refining my decisions, embracing risk, and continuously experimenting, I was able to unlock a new path for wealth growth.

Compared to the few friends who made their first million directly through investing, my entrepreneurial journey was exceptionally tough. Not to mention the many detours I took along the way in my investment journey. However, it was through these challenges that I developed the determined and decisive character I have today. Ultimately, the choices we make are often more important than the effort itself. If I had met an investment master like Helmsman Quinlan Sutter earlier, perhaps my investment path would have been much smoother, and I would have avoided many of those detours.

So, guys, I truly hope you all can appreciate the valuable platform that the QTM community offers. Here, there's not only knowledge sharing, but also countless real-life examples of people like me who have changed their destinies through learning. In the last "Trading Practice Bootcamp," although we didn't have the support of AlphaStream 5.0, we were fortunate enough to witness a surge in AI tech stocks led by Nvidia. I was lucky enough to grow a $4 million principal to nearly $33 million. This was a major leap in my life, but what excites me even more is the upcoming "Millionaire Club."

Why? Because this time, Helmsman Quinlan Sutter has not only introduced the brand-new AlphaStream 5.0 system, but also paved a clear and powerful path to success for us. The system's accuracy and stability have already been perfectly demonstrated in testing, and now, we have the opportunity to apply it in real-world practice. The opportunity is right in front of us, and those who will truly seize it are the ones willing to take action.

Guys, now is your best opportunity. Every step you take matters for your future, and every action could be the key to your success. Don't hesitate—join us and let's get started!

Since Thursday is Thanksgiving, the market will close at 2 p.m. on Friday, resulting in lighter trading volumes. The October core PCE price index year-over-year was released at +2.8%, marking the largest increase since April 2024. The core PCE year-over-year remains close to 3%, rather than 2%, which makes the Federal Reserve's upcoming decision more complicated. In September, in response to signs of economic cooling, the Federal Reserve cut interest rates for the first time, starting the rate-cutting cycle.

However, today's release of the October core PCE price index showed a year-over-year increase of 2.8%, marking the largest rise since April 2024. The core PCE has remained around 3%, well above the Federal Reserve's target of 2%, making the Fed's upcoming decision even more challenging.

Looking back at September, the Federal Reserve initiated a rate-cutting cycle in response to signs of an economic slowdown. However, inflationary pressures have not significantly eased in recent months, which could lead the Fed to pause rate cuts during its meetings in December or January. This undoubtedly adds to market uncertainty.

Based on the current movement of the three major indices, as mentioned in Helmsman Quinlan Sutter's analysis this morning, the market is awaiting clearer signals. Only when the next rate-cutting cycle truly begins will the market likely enter a new profit window.

For the VIST and KEYS that we are currently tracking through the $\alpha&\beta$ strategy, the bullish trend remains intact, and continuing to hold is the wisest choice at this point. At the same time, our star asset in the portfolio QTM token has been showing particularly exciting performance recently. From the daily chart of QTM token, the technical indicators are signaling signs of consolidation at high levels, which is undoubtedly setting the stage for the next upward move. According to wave theory analysis, this consolidation often signals that the second wave of strong growth is about to begin.

The continued positive momentum in the crypto market, combined with the successful completion of AlphaStream 5.0's second test and the anticipation of its global launch, has injected long-term confidence into the market. On the technical side, QTM token has successfully stayed above the middle band of the BBands and is gradually strengthening as the MACD indicator improves. All of this suggests that the next wave of growth could be even stronger than the previous one.

The success of AlphaStream 5.0 has not only sparked a strong reaction in the capital markets but has also greatly boosted market confidence, becoming the core driver behind the rise in QTM token prices. Each bullish candlestick not only reflects the market's recognition of AlphaStream 5.0 but also highlights the immense potential of QTM token as an emerging asset.

For us early investors, the current market trends are undoubtedly exciting. All of this proves the investment value of QTM token and provides us with an excellent opportunity to participate. Looking ahead, with the continued optimization of the AlphaStream 5.0 technology and increasing market recognition, I am confident that QTM token will reach the $15 target by March next year. Now is the key moment to hold firm in our conviction and seize the opportunity.

Many friends have asked me how I achieved such significant success and grew my capital in the last "Trading Bootcamp." While technical skills and mindset management are important, I believe the key factor is: decisively executing once an opportunity is identified!

The truth is, many people, like me, saw the same opportunity, but I took action with conviction. I went all in, using every available resource to seize the chance. This level of commitment made all the difference. Success isn't a coincidence, it's the natural result of decisive action.

Action is the key to success. When an opportunity arises, hesitation is your biggest enemy. It will hold you back, leaving you to watch others achieve what could have been yours.

If you're ready to change your life, joining the AlphaStream 5.0 Millionaire Club is one of the smartest choices you can make right now. The meaning of life lies in action and planned risk-taking. Think about it, how many people miss out on life's most important opportunities because they hesitate? Don't let hesitation steal your dreams.

QTM COMMUNITY

Start taking action today, trust your instincts, and don't let opportunities slip through your fingers. The future belongs to those who boldly move forward, and your next step could start right now.

Wishing a Happy Thanksgiving to every friend in the community! Let's celebrate this holiday with a heart full of gratitude and embrace the future with determined action. The best moments are still ahead—let's seize them together!
