Samuel Blackwood

Morning Review (α & β Strategy)

Good morning, community members!

I'm Samuel Blackwood. Yesterday, Helmsman shared a perspective that resonated deeply with me: discovering opportunities in investments is one thing, but the key to success lies in seamlessly combining opportunities with actual trades. This point is absolutely worth reflecting on for each of us.

Imagine this scenario: You've consecutively bought three stocks or a few options, each yielding around 40% in profits. Your confidence swells, and you start believing that market opportunities are limitless. You can't help but think, "If only I had invested more!" So, you muster your courage to go big and heavily invest in your fifth stock. However, the market gives you a harsh lesson. The stock you went all-in on doesn't rise as expected but instead declines. Worse yet, you fail to reduce your position or cut losses in time, leading to growing unrealized losses, and eventually, you're stuck. Sound familiar? Is this a trading story you've experienced before?

Friends, we all know that avoiding regrettable trading traps on the investment path comes down to one core secret, timing the cycle, doing the right thing at the right time. Let's think back January 2024, when AI mega-tech stocks, led by NVIDIA, ignited a bull market. It was truly a "gift" from the market. At that time, the indices weren't at high levels, and many super-tech stocks had price-to-earnings ratios that were quite attractive. Such opportunities are like a ray of sunlight in winter, warm and rare. For those who understood timing cycles, it was the perfect moment to go all in and act decisively.

And now? Let's look at today's market reality. The three major indices have already experienced high-level volatility and could see further downward adjustments. As for individual stocks, many are already at high levels and lack cost-effectiveness. Do you think the next wave of market leaders will still be these high-priced stocks? The answer is clearly no. Future opportunities will belong to quality stocks that stabilize at the bottom and are ready to take off, not the “high-and-mighty” star stocks of today.

The logic for heavily buying stocks right now simply doesn’t hold up anymore. Think about it, corporate executives and institutions are frantically selling at high levels, while you’re buying. This is countertrend trading. Can you expect good results from such trades? Smart investors never go against market logic. Instead, they follow the trend and use rational thinking to seize opportunities.

So, how can you truly avoid these trading traps? The secret lies in choosing the right timing cycle and making the most certain trades. When an opportunity is so clear that it cannot be missed, you need to act decisively and go all in. This is not just a strategy, it’s also a mindset. Last year, I captured the most certain buying opportunities in the stock market, leveraging full-position operations to achieve exponential growth in funds. Now, I’m applying the same precision in the crypto market to steadily achieve even greater goals.

Friends, avoiding traps is not just about avoiding mistakes, it’s also about knowing how to seize opportunities. Helmsman taught us something crucial: When the timing is right, don’t hesitate, go all in. The market never lacks opportunities; what it lacks are people who know how to seize them. Believe in yourself, follow the best strategies, and avoid unnecessary traps to embrace the glory that belongs to you!

Let's take a moment to reflect: investing is not just about strategy and execution, it's also a battle of psychology and emotion. The significance of timing cycles lies in helping us identify those certain opportunities, but in actual trading, a calm mindset and rational decision-making are key to winning this battle. As Helmsman said, the true test of trading lies not only in market fluctuations but also in whether you can maintain inner peace amidst the volatility.

Many times, fear and greed drive us to make mistakes. When faced with a loss, do you choose to give up? When faced with a profit, do you become overconfident? Successful traders understand that success doesn't come from momentary luck but from consistent perseverance. The real winners can remain calm like water even in the most turbulent markets, steadfastly executing their strategies and trusting their judgments.

AlphaStream 5.0 has consistently guided us through our profit challenge plans. This achievement is not only due to its precision but also a testament to the execution it demands. If you have strictly adhered to the strategy and resisted emotional influences, I am confident that your account's performance has already brought you satisfaction. Of course, the size of your gains is closely tied to your capital but more importantly, have you fully committed to every certain opportunity? If you have, then regardless of the outcome, there should be no regrets because you've put in your best effort.

But I know some friends may have missed opportunities due to skepticism from others or personal hesitation. In this world, few people can truly identify certain opportunities, and true pioneers, like Helmsman, are even rarer. There are still people who resist the crypto market, and these concerns will only stop them from taking opportunities. But remember, when the whole world is optimistic about the crypto market, those certain profit opportunities are no longer there.

Worry, fear, and even confusion are common in trading especially in emerging markets. However, the key is not letting these emotions dictate our decisions. Market volatility and uncertainty are the very sources of opportunity. As long as we stay steadfast and avoid letting emotions sway us, we will surely reap significant rewards.

Facing the current crypto market, friends, I have one thing to tell you: We are dancing with the "Crypto President," part of a national-level strategic investment and one of the most certain opportunities today. A strong mindset not only helps us persevere during adversity but also keeps us humble in success. Every trade is a chance to learn and grow, allowing us to draw experience from market fluctuations and continuously improve our trading skills.

Future market will undoubtedly remain turbulent, but we have confidence, strategy, Helmsman's guidance, and the power of the team. These are our core weapons for maintaining an unbeatable position in the market. Let's stay calm in every trade and approach our investment goals step by step with the utmost determination and precision.

Returning to the market, the U.S. stock market initially experienced an upswing following Donald Trump's election victory, but this gain has now been entirely erased. The reversal in market sentiment is primarily due to two key factors: adjustments in Federal Reserve interest rate expectations and investor concerns over Trump's protectionist policies.

In December of last year, the Federal Reserve's policy adjustments marked a turning point. Although the Fed cut interest rates by 25 basis points at the time, it simultaneously raised its inflation expectations and dampened hopes for future easing. According to the latest projections from Fed officials, the expected number of rate cuts for 2025 has been reduced from four at the beginning of the year to just two. This announcement directly triggered a wave of stock market sell-offs, cooling investor expectations for future rate cuts.

At the same time, policies from Donald Trump's second term have become a key market focus. In particular, his proposed new round of tariff plans is seen as a potential driver of inflation risks, sharply contrasting with his campaign promises to "lower prices." Data shows that the U.S. one-year inflation expectation rose to 2.64% in December, reaching a six-month high. Coupled with December's robust employment data, this has further solidified market expectations that the Fed will not ease its policy further in the short term.

The pressure from rising interest rates continues to push U.S. Treasury yields higher.

The 10-year Treasury yield climbed to 4.794% this week, marking its highest level since late 2023. While Trump implemented tariffs during his first term, their impact on inflation was relatively limited at the time. This time, however, the situation is different, the new tariff plans have a broader scope and a more direct impact on inflation.

According to the latest data, over 40% of investors hold a bearish outlook on the stock market over the next six months, the highest level in six weeks. It's clear that the market is currently navigating a phase of both low sentiment and heightened uncertainty.

Recently, discussions about a potential AI bubble bursting have drawn significant attention in the market. A warning from top tech analyst Gene Munster has further cast a shadow over investor sentiment. While artificial intelligence (AI) remains the primary driver of tech stock gains, the underlying bubble could burst by 2027, leading to a potential 30% correction in the Nasdaq Composite Index. Munster specifically highlighted Nvidia and other leading chip manufacturers, suggesting that these hardware tech stocks could suffer the most severe losses if the bubble bursts. Although Nvidia's stock price has skyrocketed by over 2,000% in the past five years, delivering impressive performance, its recent quarterly earnings have failed to meet the market's high expectations. When tech giants like Nvidia begin to fall short of investor expectations, panic could quickly spread, potentially triggering a collapse in trading across the entire tech sector.

Munster's perspective serves as an important reminder for us: we cannot blindly assume that tech giants will continue to outperform the market. After all, cyclical market adjustments are inevitable, and overly high expectations are often the spark that ignites a bubble's burst. While AI offers limitless possibilities for the future, the risks of short-term overvaluation cannot be overlooked.

QTM COMMUNITY

As the three major indices continue to decline amidst ongoing volatility, more negative news has emerged. Do you remember? Back when the market was at its peak, we strongly recommended significantly reducing positions to avoid stock market risks and reallocating funds to the more promising crypto market. This is the wisest investment strategy, taking action before the market drops, rather than trying to recover losses after the fall.

Stock Market Headwinds vs. Crypto Market Tailwinds

Currently, the stock market is weighed down by negative news, keeping investor sentiment subdued. In contrast, the crypto market presents a completely different picture, with a series of positive developments. Let's take a look at some recent highlights:

- 1. The Big Four U.S. Custodian Banks are set to allow Bitcoin asset custody, marking a significant step in integrating traditional finance with crypto assets and showcasing institutional recognition of the crypto market.
- 2. Kenya's plan to legalize cryptocurrencies signals an accelerating trend of broader acceptance of crypto assets by more countries.
- 3. The balance of Bitcoin on exchange wallets has dropped to a new low of 2.19 million coins, the lowest since 2018. This data indicates that more investors are moving Bitcoin into cold wallets for long-term holding, a signal often interpreted as bullish.

At the same time, the continued purchasing by institutional investors is one of the key reasons behind the decline in Bitcoin reserves on exchanges. Global crypto hedge funds have been taking advantage of Bitcoin's recent dip to buy in large quantities, positioning themselves for future market opportunities. These moves have undoubtedly strengthened bullish sentiment in the market and created additional trading opportunities for individual investors.

What's exciting is that next week, Crypto President Trump will officially return, which will undoubtedly further ignite bullish enthusiasm in the crypto market and increase market volatility. For us as investors, this translates to greater trading opportunities and more profit potential.

Now is the time to reassess our investment portfolios and make the most optimal adjustments! Allocating just 10% to the stock market while shifting 90% of funds to the crypto market is the smartest strategy in the current environment. With the precise analysis and strategic guidance of AlphaStream 5.0, we can identify the best investment opportunities across both the stock and crypto markets, helping us achieve our profit goals.

At present, the crypto market is experiencing unprecedented opportunities, and our Wealth Matrix is carefully guiding us to tilt our portfolio toward crypto-related investments. This shift not only helps us capture greater excess returns but also demonstrates the flexibility and forward-thinking nature of asset allocation. The facts prove that this strategy is not only effective but also secure and efficient, representing the most accurate assessment of the current market landscape.

Through prudent asset allocation and sound investment strategies, we can navigate this opportunity-rich market with greater confidence and emerge as strong performers. AlphaStream 5.0 will help us precisely capture every market fluctuation, providing our investment portfolios with enhanced security and profitability.

I firmly believe that, at our current pace of returns, we will achieve our goals within the expected timeframe. This is not a dream but a reality refined through scientific strategies and consistent practice! Now is the time to consolidate our achievements and aim for even greater goals. The market's fluctuations hold countless opportunities, and AlphaStream 5.0 provides us with a powerful tool to seize them. Let's take advantage of every opportunity, guided by clear planning and resolute action, to achieve even greater success together!

Today, I'd like to share some important data and insights with you, hoping to help you better plan your next investment strategy.

Let's take a look at this exciting data:

- 1. VIP1 Partners have achieved a total asset return rate of 61.31%! This means that if you've consistently followed the strategies of AlphaStream 5.0, the profit generated from your principal has already exceeded 50%. And this is based on conservative tracking and calculations.
- 2. VIP2 and VIP3 Partners have realized 1x and 2x returns, respectively, with results significantly exceeding expectations!

What does this tell us?

Friends, this is more than just data, it's a clear signal: joining a higher-tier VIP partnership can lead to even greater returns. If you're currently a VIP1 Partner, I strongly encourage you to upgrade to a higher-tier partnership to ensure your earnings align with the overall average. If you encounter any challenges during this process, please contact an assistant immediately to request support. The core mission of the QTM community is to never leave behind any friend who is pursuing their dreams.

VIP Partners have not only achieved their foundational goals but have also exceeded expectations. This fully demonstrates our unique strengths in fund allocation and risk management. By engaging in trades based on higher time-frame charts and leveraging more frequent and powerful trading signals, the cumulative return rates and total asset compound growth rates have reached unprecedented heights.

To be honest, at the beginning, I had some concerns, worried that a few of you might struggle with execution. That's precisely why I promptly developed a comprehensive fund management system and personalized strategies. The results have exceeded all expectations, filling me with immense pride. Your hard work and unwavering commitment have demonstrated the incredible strength and boundless potential of our team. Each individual success is the result of our collective effort.

Our goal is well within reach!

Friends, achieving multimillion-dollar returns is no longer an unattainable dream for our VIP Partners, it is a realistic and achievable target. In fact, a few have already reached this milestone ahead of schedule. Take Samuel, for example. He invested nearly $25 million, and his returns can only be described as “extremely impressive.” Early and substantial retirement is now a 100% certainty for him.

What does this teach us?

If you’re concerned about the current size of your funds, the most straightforward solution is to increase your capital. For example, the difference in returns between an investment of $1.5 million and $5 million is substantial. Not only will this make achieving your goals much easier, but it will also lay the groundwork for greater future returns.

The upcoming critical moment requires your full attention, please participate thoughtfully:

1. Next week, “Crypto President” Trump is making his return, bringing significant trading opportunities to the crypto market. Are you ready?
2. If you’ve already joined as a VIP Partner, are you satisfied with your current returns? If not, why haven’t you upgraded to a higher-tier partnership? What kind of support do you need?

Please take the time to thoughtfully complete our questionnaire (worth 30 points). This will allow me to personally understand your perspectives and develop even more ambitious strategic plans.

Friends, we are on a journey filled with challenges and opportunities, and each of your successes fills me with immense pride. This is the best testament to the strength of our team and the collective reward for our hard work!

That's all for today's discussion. Remember, now is the best time to take action. Let's move forward together with even greater passion and determination toward new achievements! I look forward to continuing this exciting journey with you next time!
